Buccanneer Park selected for privatization project

BY DENA BISNETTE
Buccanneer State Park in Hancock County will serve as the site for a pilot project allowing a private developer to provide a restaurant and lodging facility on the park grounds.

Ladner refuses extradition

BY BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Jeffrey J. Ladner has refused to voluntarily return to Hancock County to face capital murder charges in connection with the Nov. 11 shooting deaths of Jeannette Holden and her mother, Dorothy G. Tassin.

Ladner, 29, is being held in a Jefferson Parish, La. jail. He was arrested Nov. 27 in River Ridge, La. after attempting to sell a ring that had belonged to Holden.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Ladner's actions will only delay his return to the county by a few weeks.

"We have already contacted the district attorney's office to begin extradition proceedings," Peterson added.

Peterson also said the case against Ladner will be presented to the next Hancock County Grand Jury.

In a Nov. 25 search of Ladner's River Ridge, La. apartment several items of jewelry which belonged to Holden were found.

Identification of the ring was made by Holden's son, Dennis Grabert of Metairie, her daughter Tessie Gross of Shoreline Park, and through a photograph of Holden wearing the ring.

Law enforcement officers also found two to three ounces of marijuana in Ladner's apartment.

ment Center, privatization of other state parks may follow if the project works well at Buccanneer.

The project is a joint effort of the center and the State Department of Natural Resources, which manages state parks.

According to Beech, proposals from developers interested in the park project will be taken until Feb. 2. Those proposals will then be evaluated by a team of both state and private experts who will decide what types of restaurant and lodging facilities are most suitable.

The developer whose project is chosen would then be provided a long-term lease on a site in the park, she added.

The terms for such a lease have not been finalized, but the developer would probably be required to pay an annual rental fee or a percentage of profits, Beech explained.

Buccanneer Park was selected because it is one of only two state parks that are presently profitable and because the area lacks lodging facilities.

In addition, the park's location was considered.

Col. Charles Blalock, director of the State Department of Natural Resources, said Buccanneer is seen as having good potential for a privatization project.

"We're trying to tap the New Orleans market area in particular," he said.

"Privatization of state parks is not a new concept. It has been tried in some other states, particularly in federal parks. We did a survey that found 16 parks doing it," Blalock said.

"What this would enable us to do would be provide a recreational service to Mississippi and the tourist industry that the state does not have the capital to provide right now," he added.

He said one privatization project that was tried at Natchez did not work out, but that calls for the development of an entirely new park. The center suggested trying an existing park.

Authorization for the project was BUCCANNEER—Page 2A

Louisiana residents arrested for possession of cocaine

A Louisiana couple was charged Friday night with possession of cocaine with the intent to distribute by Bay St. Louis police.

Michael Crum, 22, of 10950 Jefferson Rd., River Ridge, La. and Barbara Knott, 26, of Dixieland Trailer Park, Airline Hwy., Kenner, La. were arrested during a controlled drug buy where police confiscated two ounces of cocaine.

Bay Detective Chuck James said information from a confidential informant led to the arrests.

Crum, who was carrying a .38 caliber revolver and a two-shot derringer, was also charged with possession of concealed weapons.

Both Crum and Knott are being held in the Hancock County Jail.

Children's Christmas Tree

Needy children to get new clothing through Christmas tree project

BY BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Many needy Hancock County children will receive gifts of clothing through a community project sponsored by Kmart in Waveland.

In the Children's Tree program, interested persons select a tag from a large Christmas tree at the Kmart store and buy a gift of clothing for a child listed on the tag.

Information on the child's ages and sizes are listed on the tag. There is no set items or amount to be spent. The gift may be purchased at any location but must be returned gift wrapped to the Kmart store by Dec. 18.

Parents of the children will be notified to pick up the gifts at the store before Christmas.

Local project coordinator Charlotte Hanson, Kmart personnel and training manager, said there already has been very good response to the project and more than 300 tags have been taken so far.

Area organizations participating in the project include the Holiday Inquiry and Referral Service, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary, Hancock County Food Pantry and the Retired Seniors Volunteer Program.

"This program helps make Christmas what it should be, the happiest time of the year for children," said Michael Bettis, Kmart store manager.

Wastewater district eyeing pipeline work alternative

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District is looking at the possibility of using two main lines rather than one when the Bay St. Louis and Waveland sewage collection systems are linked.

Keeping the existing gravity-type line would be possible by using a special liner called Insituform to line the pipe, District Administrator Ethel Schott said at Wednesday's district board meeting.

A gravity line begins at a higher level than a force main and slopes downward to the treatment plant. That type of line must also be laid deeper than a force main, Schott added.

The pipe was checked with a television camera and except for a few sunken places is reportedly in good shape, she said.

The pipe is 24 inches in diameter and serves to bring sewerage from the city of Waveland to the wastewater treatment plant on Gulfside Drive.

Originally, a new 30-inch gravity line was planned and the existing line would be abandoned.

The district is now considering leaving the existing line in place and constructing a 14-inch force main to handle sewerage from Bay St. Louis and four county subdivisions where collection systems are planned but have not yet been constructed.

She said construction of a force main is less disruptive to the neighborhood than construction of a gravity line because less digging is required.

The district is presently waiting to find out if the new proposal is eligible for U.S. Environmental Protection Agency grant funding.

Schott said a force main is supposed to be less difficult to maintain than a gravity line.

In addition, the liner for the existing pipe is supposed to be less prone to breakage than the pipe itself.

The lined pipe also produces less friction and can therefore carry more sewage flow, she added.

The pipeline is part of Segment Three of a four-part project, which the district is expecting to advertise for bids before Christmas.

Segments I and II, both in progress, consist of improvements and pipeline additions at the sewage lagoon in Bay St. Louis and the existing Waveland wastewater treatment plant.

Segment III consists of the pipeline work required for linkage of the two city systems and Segment IV consists of the linkage itself and the construction of collection systems for four county subdivisions.

All segments have been or are being checked for eligibility for 75 percent grant funding from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and interest-free state loans.

The district also provides a share of local money and is trying to obtain some Farmer's Home Administration funding as well.

Under grant regulations, the district is obligated to have variations from its original proposals checked for eligibility through State Bureau of Pollution Control and U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

According to Schott, the Insituform lining could be bid later if the district can not obtain information on grant eligibility in time for bid advertisement deadlines.

"It's a good process in cases where you have a line that goes under a road or highway rather than digging up the road to put in a new line," Schott said.

The estimate for both Insituform and the new force main is $393,000, about $90,000 more than the original plan for a 30-inch gravity line.

However, the State Bureau of Pollution Control and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency decides grant eligibility on potential cost-effectiveness during operation and maintenance rather than initial design and construction costs.

The board is not expected to make a final decision on which alternative to use until the eligibility report is available.

president. In the background are, left to right, J.R. Phillips, Museum master mechanic; J.S. Little, Terminal maintenance foreman; D.R. Harrell, Terminal manager; and P.H. Dixon, Navies Ship Co. The lucky No. 7 will begin its fortieth year in 1987 hauling passengers on the Museum's 10-mile tourist railroad. (Photograph by Mobile Press Register)

The Mississippi Railway and Transportation Museum has recently been donated a 115-ton Alco diesel railroad switch engine No. 7 by the Mobile River Terminal, Mobile, Ala., according to J.V. Cannon, Museum president.

The 1,000 hp locomotive was built in 1947 for the Tennessee Coal Iron & Railroad Co., Birmingham, Ala. No. 7 helped to replace the old steam engines then in use and spent most of its life switching cars to the blast furnaces on the steel mill railroad, which later became part of U.S. Steel.

In July 1974, No. 7 was transferred to Mobile for use switching ore cars at U.S. Steel's TCI Ship Unloading Dock. The engine was occasionally used up until 1979, then put into storage.

When Mobile River Terminal took over U.S. Steel's TCI Dock, the No. 7 was surplus and slated for scrapping. However, Museum members were able to have the Terminal donate the locomotive and its spare parts supply for historic preservation.

The lucky No. 7 will begin its fortieth year in 1987 hauling passengers with the Museum's 2-3-0 type No. 203 steam engine on the 10-mile tourist railroad. Anyone interested in Museum activities can write P.O. Box 15405, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39404 for full information. New Members are welcome.

Park Manager Greg Smith's input is expected to be particularly important to the project, Blalock added.

"Greg Smith certainly knows that park better than any of us here in Jackson," he said.

The park has developed and primitive campgrounds, pavilions, picnic areas, a store and the area's only wave pool. Although some state parks have cabins, Buccanneer presently has no lodging facilities.

Director, parents to ask board for new band uniforms

BY DENA BISNETTE

The director of the Bay St. Louis High School band plans to ask the Bay-Waveland School District Board to assist her with a student morale problem.

Band Director Lana Jones said the problem stems from the fact that the students were promised new uniforms last spring, but those uniforms have never been ordered.

She said she has arranged for some of the officers of the school's band parents organization to speak at Monday night's board meeting.

In addition, she is asking parents to attend the meeting to show their support for the idea of obtaining new uniforms.

Jones said she is going back to the school board for help after meeting with principals who were unable to assist her in getting the uniforms ordered.

"All they will tell me is that (Board Member L.D.) Carter suggested that there may be more pressing needs for that money," the band director said.

The price of the uniforms totals $17,000.

"Those kids have gone through a lot in the past few years. They've had a couple of different directors. Anytime you change directors it's very emotional for the students," said Jones.

"It takes five years to rebuild a band program. We're rebuilding and we have a good start on the process at the junior high, but this is really undermining the morale of our older students," Jones said.

"I got up in front of them and have to say over and over again that the uniforms we were promised have not been ordered. That's not fun, seeing all that disappointment on their faces."

The present uniforms are in poor condition due to age and lack of storage facilities and are an inadequate supply, Jones said.

The available coats are too small to fit larger students and the band performs without hats because there are not enough available in usable condition. Drummers wear short-sleeved shirts purchased from a local dollar store.

"We are sending our band out to represent our school and community in embarrassing attire," she said.

According to Jones, the board agreed in May to purchase uniforms using a short-term note from the City of Bay St. Louis, advertised and received the bids in June, then delayed accepting the bid until August.

The matter was sent on to the city council, where the purchase was approved, but the city attorney found that the loan could not be made under present statutes.

In October, the school board requested that the superintendent of education and the school's business manager develop a plan transferring funds for the uniforms from other sections of the district's budget and incorporating a $1,000 donation from the band parents' organization.

However, Jones said that she was notified that Carter had moved to table the purchase at one of the board's November meetings.

"As I understand it at this point, no further action has been taken. We hope that by going to the meeting we can get another vote," the band director said.

Superintendent of Education Roger Oge said he is in favor of providing new uniforms for the band, but added that he feels the board has acted correctly.

"The board was well within its rights, obligations and duties to the public in taking the matter of the uniforms under advisement, it being such a large purchase and all," the superintendent said Friday.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the superintendent's boardroom at Bay Senior High School.

WALLACE E. ROBERTS

Roberts to conduct revival at Clermont Harbor

Rev. Wallace E. Roberts, director of The Methodist Hour of Mississippi, will be guest speaker at a four-night revival starting Dec. 7 at the Clermont Harbor United Methodist Church. Services begin 7 o'clock.

Among churches whose members will participate are those at Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Pass Christian and Pearlinton, according to Rev. Alton R. Farley, pastor of the host church. Special music has been planned.

Rev. Roberts has been director of The Methodist Hour since 1978. The television ministry began under his leadership six years ago and has 12 television outlets in Mississippi and one in Georgia. As a revival preacher, he has occupied pulpits widely in the South.

A native of Meridian, Rev. Roberts holds degrees from Millsaps College and Candler School of Theology, Emory University. He has held a number of pastorates in Mississippi and served in the Air Force from 1951 to 1955.

Based at Hattiesburg, he is of a family prominent in religious work. A brother, Ken Roberts, is director of music at Jackson's Galloway United Methodist Church; a nephew, James M. Harrison, is pastor at Jackson's Epworth United Methodist Church. Rev. Roberts' brother, Air Force Chaplain Waddell Roberts, was killed in line of duty in Korea.

Hancock school district accepts land donation

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County School Board has accepted a donation of 40 acres of land adjacent to Stennis Airport.

According to Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph, the board has not yet taken action on what to do with the property.

"All we did Thursday was formally accept the donation," he explained. "We are sure we will find a use for the property in the future."

"The location is good, and we see it as a potential site for a new school should we eventually decide to build."

The land was donated by the Cinque Bambini Partnership and is located on Highway 603 across from the airport, Board Attorney Joseph Gex said.

The land is presently being used as open pasture, Gex said.

The specific 40 acres has not yet been deeded to the school district, which could finalize the arrangement to accept any of three sections of the property, the attorney added.

In other business, the board:

—Met for two hours in executive session on student discipline and barred several students from riding county school buses for the remainder of the school year;

—Approved resignations of Karen Ward, first grade teacher at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School, and Mae Cuevas, special education aide at Hancock North Central; —Employed Lorraine Necaise to replace Cuevas; Robert O. Bennett, Lisa Farve and Connie Ladner as substitute janitors at Hancock North Central; and Jerry R. Smith, Kay B. Peterson and Cindy Ponder as substitute teachers at Hancock North Central;

—Approved several travel requests for administrators attending conferences and workshops;

—Approved reclassification of three parcels of 16th section in NASA's buffer zone as agricultural;

—Approved a request for purchase of a laminating machine for the district at a cost of $1,399 and agreed to advertise for bids for 13 chairs for Hancock North Central's typing class; and —Accepted bids on a covered walkway connecting the main section of Gulfview Elementary School with a recently completed addition.

ETV Brief

An adaptation of Lucy Maud Montgomery's beloved book "Anne of Green Gables" will be presented again on "Wonderworks" at 7:30 p.m., Thursdays, beginning Dec. 11, on Mississippi ETV. The popular four-part adaptation was first shown on ETV last February. Megan Follows, Colleen Dewhurst and Richard Farnsworth star.

When Matthew Cuthbert (Farnsworth) and his sister Marilla (Dewhurst), both unmarried, adopt an orphan, they hope for a sturdy boy to help with the farm chores. Instead, the orphanage sends a girl who is mischievous and talkative and has all of the right intentions, but things just go haywire.

Anne Shirley (Follows), a red-haired, freckled-faced and homely-looking child, arrives at Green Gables desperate to be loved and anxious to please her new family in every way. Instead, she insults the town matriarch, smashes her slate over a classmate's head when he calls her "carrots" and accidentally gets her best friend drunk at a tea party.

I will long remember Thanksgiving 1986 as I had to undergo emergency surgery the Monday before at Hancock General Hospital.

I am now on my way to recovery at home and hope to be out and about in the coming days.

For sure, there was no turkey for me on Thanksgiving, but I hope to make up for that in the coming holiday season.

One thing we must all realize is the fact that nature can bring you to a halt without notice.

I did have an opportunity of watching several complete football games on television. A TV set sure helps make a hospital stay not too boring.

The breaking news from the nation's capital, some interviews I know I viewed at least a dozen times. It looks like a long ordeal is underway in Washington.

One thing I would like to emphasize, and that is the very fine care I received at Hancock General Hospital.

We are so fortunate to have such a facility as Hancock General Hospital in our community.

Everyone at Hancock General went out of their way to make my stay as comfortable as possible under the circumstances.

Like everyone else, I am awaiting the opening of the Hancock Medical Center in 1987.

It is hard for an active person during recovery because everything comes to a halt.

Hopefully I'll be moving about at the same old pace in a few weeks.

By the way, thanks to everyone for their well-wishes.

Junior Auxiliary seeking funding for Preventive Child Abuse program

Dec. 1, 1988
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor,

We read about it in the newspaper, we hear about it on radio and television. As a community, we are becoming aware of the prevalence of child abuse in Hancock County. It is alarming.

Recently, the Child and Family Life Council of Hancock County held a forum for professionals and service providers who deal with children. The Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary explained the Preventive Child Abuse Education Program that we plan to implement in our school systems this school year.

We appreciate the help we have received from the Extension Service Homemakers Clubs, who made puppets; Hancock Plumbing Supply, who donated the materials for a stage. We received cash donations from Coast Electric and Theodore S. Price, Post No. 3253 VFW Ladies Auxiliary to help purchase films.

There are so many caring, concerned people in Hancock County who want to help. We are currently seeking financial aid from local businesses and other organizations to help fund this program. Any interested business or individual may contact Judy Miller at 467-0355, Marjorie Gex at 467-4084, or Bonnie Allison at 467-7957.

Sincerely,
Judy Miller, Chairman

Webelos den leader thanks police department

Dec. 2, 1988
Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

On behalf of Cub Scout Pack 207 from North Bay Elementary School, our sincere thanks to Chief Ray Murphy and the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

The Webelos Den (10- and 11-year-olds) visited the Police Department on the evening of Dec. 1. During the visit, Chief Murphy answered their questions regarding police equipment and responsibilities as well as ways in which they, as young citizens, could help the department and the community.

The positive impact of Chief Murphy's discussion on problems ranging from missing children to drugs was evidenced by the nature and number of questions raised by the boys.

This visit was definitely a highlight for the Webelos this year. Again, many thanks to Chief Murphy and the Bay St. Louis Police Department for giving the extra time and effort. The information that the boys gained will be an asset in facing the coming pressures of their teenage years.

Sincerely,
Mark A. Boston

Resident complains of new street striping

Letter to the Editor:
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Anyone driving Blue Meadow Road these days, be sure not to cast your eyes on the orange or white striping that is supposed to assist drivers, because if you're not already "under the influence" you'll get the same effect.

According to Bill Johnson, County

Maintenance Superintendent, the so-called striping was done by the Port and Harbor workmen at the recommendation of Beat Supervisor James Travirca. Same old song, shortage of funds making it not possible to hire a good contractor to do a good job.

Why should we have to live with this?

Drunk, Drugged Awareness Week set for Dec. 14-20

Gov. Bill Allain has proclaimed December 14-20 as Mississippi Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week.

The proclamation corresponds with a joint congressional resolution designating the week as National Drunk and Drugged Driving Week.

Despite Mississippi's tough drunk driving law, legislation raising the state's minimum drinking age to 21 and considerable emphasis upon combating drug problems, drunk and drugged driving still are Mississippi's most serious highway safety problems," said Billy Terrell, director of the Highway Safety Division, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

"Our studies indicate that drunk and drugged driving have roles in at least 50 percent of Mississippi's highway traffic fatalities."

"The prime emphasis for this year's Awareness Week is using designated drivers - persons appointed not to drink in a group of individuals who plan to drink," Terrell said.

"There's a growing trend among people partying together to designate one of their own to do the driving. Probably because of the considerable publicity and legislation on drunk driving, more and more Mississippians are taking steps to avoid the deadly combination of drinking and driving."

Terrell outlined various designated driver steps that can be taken. They are:

Request local establishments where alcoholic beverages are served to sponsor designated driver programs which involve serving nonalcoholic drinks to designated drivers.

Support designated driver programs by participating in them.

Respect the designated driver. Don't try to convince this individual to drink, support the decision not to drink and drive.

"Whenever a group is drinking, and transportation is needed after the drinking, riding with a designated driver is a wise move," he said, "in ensuring the safety of all concerned."

Roy Thigpen, the governor's representative for highway safety and director of Federal-State Programs' Department of Criminal Justice Planning, said that "Mississippians also should beware of the dangers of mixing drugs other than alcohol with driving. The effects of drugs vary significantly from one individual to another and even vary in the same individual at different times."

"Taking more than one drug at a time is especially dangerous because each one can add to the impact of the other."

He noted that marijuana, like alcohol, is a mind-altering drug and that its use affects a wide range of skills needed for safe driving.

"Quick thinking and reflexes are slowed, causing drivers difficulty in responding to sudden, unexpected dangers. A driver's ability to stay in the proper lane through curves, to brake quickly and to maintain the desirable speed and distance between vehicles also are affected," Thigpen said.

Other drugs, including cocaine and some prescription drugs, all affect driving skills, particularly when combined with alcohol.

"One of the best steps that can be taken to avoid death or serious injury on Mississippi roadways," he said, "is to avoid using alcohol or any other drug before driving."

Help available for those who couldn't quit

CHICAGO—Now that the Great American Smokeout is over for another year, many smokers will breathe a sigh of relief that the pressure for them to stop smoking will slacken. Some of those people will have actually kicked the smoking habit, but a great many will give in and light up another cigarette.

It's not easy to kick a habit like smoking, and maybe we should all realize that. We have compassion for those who become addicted to drugs and alcohol; why not have compassion for those who smoke?

It's doubtful that many smokers don't realize the dangers associated with smoking. We've all heard the statistics: for every cigarette you smoke you lose five-and-a-half minutes from your life. Tobacco smoke not only contains the dangerous chemicals tar and nicotine, but formaldehyde, hydrogen cyanide, carbon monoxide and many other hazardous substances. Smokers are far more likely to get cancer or die of heart disease.

Now, scientific studies have even proven that smokers endanger not only their own health, but also the health of those around them from sidestream smoke.

Of course it's logical to not smoke. Unfortunately, when you're caught up in a habit, logic doesn't count for much. Most smokers feel guilty about that, and would probably like to really quit - forever.

Not everyone can quit smoking "cold turkey." Virtually everyone agrees that you have to want to quit a habit before you can actually be successful at quitting. But it often takes a long time for someone to reach the point where they want to quit.

So what can be done to help smokers reach the point where they want to quit?

Showing compassion and understanding will probably help much more than reinforcing negative thoughts like "You're going to die if you don't..."

What about the damage already done to smoker's bodies, and to the bodies of those who inhale smoke in the air? Hundreds of studies by researchers at leading universities have proven that tobacco smoke damages our lungs. Tobacco smoke contains high levels of free radicals which destroy other parts of your cells, such as membranes.

There is a means of help which can counter the effects of free radicals.

Scientists have found that the best way to trap and neutralize free radicals is with natural source vitamin E. Their studies confirm that the natural source vitamin E defense system minimizes free radical damage from high levels of tobacco smoke.

One of the most important recent medical studies using humans, conducted by Dr. Eric Pacht at Ohio State University, indicates that "vitamin E is an important lower respiratory tract protector. And, that low levels of vitamin E seen in smokers may predispose their lung cells to an enhanced attack."

Researchers also have found that it takes more vitamin E than the seven International Units we normally get in our diet to be effective, but we don't need to take megadoses. Four hundred international units have been found to be a safe level of supplementation.

Obviously, the best way to protect yourself and others from the harmful physical effects of smoking is to stop smoking. But, if you can't stop right now, you can at least help yourself, or those around you who smoke by making sure their diet includes natural source vitamin E.

For more information about tobacco smoke and your health, or stop smoking programs, contact your local Lung Association, the American Cancer Society, or your doctor.

There is help available for smokers - compassionate help that doesn't produce more guilt.

CHILDHOOD EYE INJURIES

Q: What are the most common childhood eye injuries and how should they be treated?

A: Sports-related injuries are responsible for about two-thirds of the pediatric eye emergencies.

The summer months bring with them more outdoor sports for children and more eye injuries of a special kind—those caused by baseballs and bats, various kinds of racquet sports, basket balls—even other children's fists.

Another major source of eye injuries is sadly the BB gun, which can cause very serious damage. Firecrackers are the other common cause of child eye accidents during the summer.

Most eye injuries should be treated by a physician. The family doctor or pediatrician will recommend a specialist if the injury is serious enough.

Bruises, lacerations, orbital fractures, and more critically, bleeding inside the eye or a ruptured globe all can result from sports accidents. Superficial bruises, scratches on the lids, and corneal abrasions can usually be treated by the family physician.

Fireworks explosions and BB gun injuries or other injuries which penetrate, rupture or cause something to be lodged in the eye and which cause bleeding inside the eye, should be seen by an ophthalmologist.

A specialist likely will be recommended also for lacerations more than a simple scratch; for example, if there is any tissue loss or if the tear drainage system is involved.

Eye injury which also required an ophthalmologist's attention—and which occurs in adults as well—is the burn caused by household cleaners, gasoline, fertilizer or other chemicals. The first thing to do in this case before anything else, is to flush the eyes with lots of tap water—then worry about calling the physician. The physician will probably want to see you immediately.

There's no particular medication to keep in the medicine cabinet for eye injuries. A far better precaution is prevention. Close parental supervision of children who participate in sports activities is recommended by experts, and of course, keep all household chemicals out of reach.

One very important investment for a child is protective eye guards, preferably with polycarbonate lenses. Even while playing baseball, glasses with plastic lenses would be better than nothing. The special eye guards should be mandatory for racquet sports. Supervision of children around fireworks also will do much to reduce injuries.

This "Matters of Health" was prepared in cooperation with the ophthalmologists on staff at the University Hospital of the University of Mississippi Medical Center. Readers may suggest future topics by writing to "Matters of Health," the University of Mississippi Medical Center, 2500 North State Street, Jackson, Mississippi 39216-4505.

The Mississippi State Medical Association offers some simple tips for selecting toys that will help insure a completely happy Christmas.

- Beware of small toys that can be swallowed, flammable toys, and toys with rough or sharp edges.
- All electric toys should be safe. Look for the UL (Underwriters Laboratory) label on the cord and on the toy itself.

- Avoid toys made of lead or colored with lead-based paints. You're unlikely to encounter these today, as the dangers of lead poisoning are now well known. But it's wise to be sure.
- Baby's toys should be too large to put in the mouth, washable, lightweight and non-brittle.

Ling retires from NASA

After nearly twenty-five years of service with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), Edwin R. Ling has retired effective Dec. 5.

His last assignment was as the Special Assistant to the NASA General Counsel in NASA Headquarters, although stationed at the National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL) where Ling had served as Chief Counsel for nearly 15 years.

He was the first Chief Counsel of the NSTL, then known as the Mississippi Test Facility, assuming this position in July of 1963. In 1967, Ling became the Deputy Chief Counsel of the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., returning to the NSTL in February, 1977, to resume his duties as NSTL Chief Counsel.

For two of these years, from June of 1984 through 1986, he was "loaned" to the State of Mississippi by NASA to serve as the Executive Director of the Governor's Office of Administrative Services in the State capital. Ling has also served as a Special Trial Assistant in the Criminal Division of the U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York and with the Atomic Energy Commission in Albuquerque and Los Alamos, New Mexico, as well as in Washington, D.C.

Ling has been honored by numerous NASA and NSTL achievement awards, along with one from the Commission on Government Procurement (1973), and has been elected to the Presidencies of the Mississippi Chapter of the Federal Bar Association, the Hancock County Lions Club and the Waveland Players Little Theatre. He has also been elected to the Board of Directors of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

A 1954 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Grinnell College in Iowa, he was awarded his Doctor of Jurisprudence degree by New York University's School of Law where he was a Root-Tilden Scholar and Editor-in-Chief of the NYU Law Bulletin, also serving as National Chairman of the American Law Student Association Committee on Moot Court.

Ling is admitted to practice law in Mississippi and Kansas, the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals and the U.S. Supreme Court.

Ling is married to the former Ingrid June Hille of Grinnell, Iowa, a 1950 graduate of Grinnell High School and also a 1954 cum laude graduate of Grinnell College. They have four children: Lorelei who is now living in Trinidad, Colorado, Rodger in Nashville, Tennessee, Krissy who is a student at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, and Clifford, a freshman student at St. Stanislaus College in Bay St. Louis.

Residing in Waveland, Ling's current plans are to continue to practice law there and to continue writing. He has had two non-fiction books published and a third is scheduled for release by his publisher next spring.

Class Distinction to entertain at annual Chamber banquet

Class Distinction will be the featured entertainment at the annual Hancock County Chamber of Commerce banquet, set for Thursday, Dec. 11, at the Diamondhead Country Club. The evening will begin with a cash social hour at 7 p.m., followed by dinner at 8 p.m.

Class Distinction is a unique trio. Their versatility covers a variety of music, including jazz, rock n' roll, country, gospel and they specialize in music from the 1940s era.

The group is composed of Sandra Compretta, Connie Heitzmann and Mary Howard, and they have been singing together for several years.

They have performed at Pete Fountain's Reunion Hall of the Louisiana World's Fair, participated in the Pops Concert at the Coast Coliseum in Biloxi, and the Mississippi Pavilion at the Louisiana World's Fair.

The group has also taped radio spots and performed at dinner theaters, private parties and numerous conventions. They performed at the New Stage Theater in Jackson, for the Mississippi Arts Commission Showcase in Jackson, the Governor's Conference on Tourism and the Mississippi Economic Council.

The Outstanding Citizen of Hancock County Award will also be presented at the banquet.

Advance reservations are required for the event, and tickets may be obtained at $23.50 per person by calling the chamber office at 467-9048. Seating is limited to 225 persons, and the deadline for making reservations and obtaining tickets is Tuesday, Dec. 9.

Kelly Brewer on waiting list for surgery at UM

At a recent meeting held at V.F.W. Post 2539, headquarters for the Kelly Brewer fund raising program, Dr. Paul Parker, assistant gastroenterologist at the University of Mississippi Medical Center presented the latest news on Little Kelly's condition.

An average ball park figure for the type of surgery that Kelly needs which is a liver transplant runs between $140,000 - $150,000. There is approximately $94,000 in Kelly's account at Hancock Bank at the present time. Mrs. Brenda Brewer, Kelly's mother, said she has all the faith and confidence in the doctors at the University of Mississippi Medical Center and has decided that the surgery will be done here in Mississippi.

Dr. Parker said that the surgery will be done for the amount of money that has been raised.

The head surgeon for the surgery will be Dr. Seshadri Raju, Professor of Surgery. Dr. Paul Parker, assistant gastroenterologist, has been attending Kelly and will be caring for her at the time of her surgery.

The estimated time of Kelly's decline in health was between 18 and 24 months. Kelly is now 18 months old and except for her coloring she is getting along well. Dr. Parker said that this is due to medical progress and her medications is what is and will at times stretch the estimated times of decline out longer. It does not mean that Kelly will not have to have the surgery. It simply means that she may have a little longer time before she has to have the surgery done.

Kelly is on the waiting list at UM. The surgery will be done when she starts on the decline. The place one is on a waiting list is irrelevant. When one starts on the decline she or he, whoever it may be, is the one taken care of. In other words the one needing the transplant the most is the one moved up and taken care of at that time.

The University of Mississippi Medical Center has never done a liver transplant. Kelly may very well be the first one.

"She is indeed in good hands. With outstanding doctors like Dr. Seshadri Raju and Dr. Paul Parker, and all of our prayers, when the time comes I feel sure that Kelly will sail through this surgery and have her chance for a full and healthy life," said Mary Underhill, co-chairman of the fund-raising campaign.

State park cabin reservations available

State park cabins reservations for seven to 14 nights for 1987 are being taken through Dec. 15. Reservations may be made in person, by mail, or by telephone.

All reservations must be for a minimum of seven nights with a maximum of 14 nights. A non-refundable, non-transferable deposit equal to three nights' rental charge is required within 10 days of when the reservation is made.

On Jan. 2, beginning at 8 a.m., in-person requests for reservations will be accepted for all unreserved cabins for 1987; on Jan. 3, telephone and mail requests will be honored.
Deposit requirements are the same as those listed above.

A listing of all state parks, their facilities and rates can be obtained by writing Parks, Post Office Box 20305, Jackson, MS 39209, or telephoning 961-5014.

Treutel elected to board of directors

David A. Treutel, president of Peoples Federal Savings, Bay St.
Louis, was elected this week to the board of directors of the United States League of Savings Institutions.

The board of directors is the league's major policy-making body.
Treutel will represent savings institutions in the state of Mississippi during the three-year term on the national board of directors. The U.S. league is the primary trade organization serving the nation's savings and loan associations and savings banks.

The election took place at the closing general session of the league's 94th annual convention, held this week in San Francisco, Calif.

Treutel's election to the board of directors was announced by league chairman, Joe C. Morris; who said,
"We are fortunate to have such a capable and dedicated savings institution executive serving the savings institutions business on the national level."

Treutel is the son of the late Peter
Joseph Treutel and Mildred Schonekas Treutel and has resided in Bay St. Louis for 35 years.

He attended St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis and received his degree in Business Administration from Tulane University in 1957.
From 1957 to 1960 he served as an officer in the United States Navy on the Pacific coast and retired after 20 years in the Naval Reserve with the rank of commander.

Treutel has been associated with Peoples Federal Savings since 1960
having served as auditor, secretary-treasurer, vice president, executive vice president and president.

He is a former president of the Mississippi Savings and Loan League which represents all federally insured savings and loan associations in Mississippi. He also serves as a member of the Savings and Loan Foundation Board of Trustees, advisory committee to the Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas.

His numerous activities include past president of Our Lady of the Gulf Church Council, past vice president of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Crime Commission, member of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce board of directors and past president of the Bay Catholic Elementary School Board and member of Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

He is a past president of Rotary and former president of the Hancock County Heart Association and member of the alumni board of directors of St. Stanislaus.
He and his family are members of
Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. He is married to the former Pennie Herring of Tylertown and they have six children.

Tigers win first home soccer game

The Bay High Varsity soccer team dominated Harrison Central in Friday night's match to win their first game of the season, 5-3.

After two close losses against Pascagoula and Biloxi, the Tigers' offense was spearheaded by Shane Kowalski who scored four of the five goals, one on a penalty kick and one with an assist from Joel Duncan who also scored a goal.

Jonathan Clark scored the fifth and final goal with an assist from Kowalski.

Coach Kathy Edwards credited several other players with outstanding contributions including Eddie Bourgeois, goalie; Scott Demboski, sweeper; Kevin Edwards, left fullback and credited with saving a goal; Doug Rhodes, halfback; and Sean Foreman, forward.

Edwards also cited John Favre, Ted Bilbo, Greg Ladner, Bill Wheeler and Mike Grisham with major contributions to the team's victory.

Team captains Bourgeois and Kowalski extend the team's thanks to the large home crowd.

The junior varsity team lost 6-0. All six goals were scored in the first half when Harrison Central played several of their varsity starters.

"We dominated play in the second half and I am very pleased with the junior varsity's progress," said Edwards.

Bay High will face St. John next Thursday in Gulfport.

Team captains Doug Rhodes and Kevin Edwards invite Tiger fans to the junior varsity and varsity matches at 5:30 and 7 p.m. respectively.

LET'S TALK BACK

Did you know that to become a certified chiropractor takes a minimum of six years of college training? In most states chiropractors are required to attend and pass annual seminars to have their licenses renewed.

The government has endorsed the use of chiropractors by including their treatments in Workmen's Compensation.

If you've been hesitant about seeing a chiropractor and this hasn't answered your questions, feel free to ask us directly. Call today.

Christmas Seals contributions support lung disease control programs

Christmas Seals fight lung diseases in Mississippi, says Elda Duke of Waveland, chairman of the Hancock County Chapter, Mississippi Lung Association.

Christmas Seal contributions from citizens of Hancock County make possible Mississippi Lung Association's vast and varied programs to prevent and control lung diseases. Christmas Seals provide help and hope for healthy lungs today and in the future.

Christmas Seals are a tradition in Hancock County, fighting the year-round battle against emphysema, asthma, chronic bronchitis, lung cancer, tuberculosis, lung diseases of the newborn and occupational lung problems. Christmas Seal programs also focus on medically recognized health hazards such as cigarette smoking and air pollution.

"Lung health for you, your family and friends is a matter of life and breath," Duke said. "The Christmas Seal People are asking you to take care of your lungs and help support MIA patient service, public information, education and medical research programs by answering your Christmas Seal letter."

Each Christmas Seal gift from Hancock County is credited to the local chapter. So, please use Christmas Seals! Continue the tradition and help keep it growing! Contributions can make a difference.

Anyone needing additional Christmas Seals may contact the local chapter or the Mississippi Lung Association, P.O. Box 9855, Jackson, MS 39206 or telephone 362-5453.

Coast Electric members receiving refund checks

Approximately $257,000.00 in Patronage Capital refunds are being mailed to Coast Electric Power Association consumer/members this week.

"The refund represents the return of capital invested during the year 1984 by Coast Electric's member/owners in the future and ongoing operation of their Association," according to Coast Electric's General Manager, Bob Occhi. "More than 12,000 accounts will receive these funds," Occhi continued.

"Capital contributed during the years 1944 through 1983 has been returned to the members in prior years, and your Board of Directors and Management are proud to announce the return for the year 1984 at this time," he said.

Occhi stated further that, "Because of the non-profit, cooperative nature of Coast Electric's business, these refunds are made possible. Capital paid in by the members over and above operating expenses, debt repayment, debt investment expenditures, belongs to the members and is returned to the."

"This is only one of the many benefits enjoyed by Coast Electric members," he concluded.

First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis was the setting for the October 26 marriage of Rebecca Jo Tedford of Waveland and Scott John Partington of Cumberland, R.I. Dr. Nathan L. Barber officiated at the double ring afternoon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Toy A. Tedford Jr. of Waveland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Partington of Cumberland, R.I.

The church was decorated with candelabra, areca palms and Boston ferns. Ivory satin bows and fern marked the pews of the center aisles and lace fans decorated with holland flowers and ribbon were placed in the church windows.

Nuptial music was presented by organist Carol Mahler, pianist Gail Carr, and flutist, Melinda Smith. Readings from scripture were rendered by Gail Carr.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of pale ivory satin with sheer illusion neckline, high lace collar, Juliet puffed sleeves tapering to the wrist, fitted bodice appliqued with venise and schiffli laces and embroidered with seed pearls. The dropped waistline gave way to a full skirt appliqued with European lace with satin tucked cathedral train. She wore a headpiece fashioned with pearls with pearl sprays with illusion pouf and fingertip veil of illusion.

She carried a silk cascade bouquet of ivory roses, stephanotis, pearl sprays and baby's breath with English ivy and plumosa fern.

Brooks Sibley of Jackson, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Pam Magee of Charlotte, N.C. and Sandra Smith of Birmingham, Ala.

The attendants were identically attired in moire taffeta gowns in tea length with ivory crocheted collars on a sabrina neckline, long tapered sleeves with lace cuffs, fitted bodice with dropped waist and full skirt. They carried colonial nosegay bouquets of holland dried flowers by jewel tones interspersed with baby's breath and fine satin ribbons.

Brian Bowe of Cumberland was best man.

Groomsmen were John Partington of Cumberland; and Louis G. Balne III of Jackson.

Paul Stanley of Jackson, uncle of the bride, was usher.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church fellowship hall.

Assisting were Lisa Pierce of Oxford and DeShea Blanchette of Bay St. Louis.

On return from a wedding trip to New England, the couple will reside in Cumberland.

Pre-nuptial Parties

Mrs. Patty Kelly was hostess at a surprise miscellaneous shower in Cumberland.

A luncheon/shower was hosted by the ladies of Page, Mannino and Peresich in Biloxi.

A miscellaneous bridal shower at the First Baptist Church was given by Mary Anne Blanchette; Bobbye Gibson, Linda Wilbourne, Shirley Magee, Judy Fletcher, Julia Anne Caruso, Carol Jackson, Sherry Reynolds, Mary Blackstock, Catherine McCraw and Gail Carr.

Laurie's Restaurant in Gulfport was the setting for a bridesmaids luncheon hosted by Mrs. Dee Dodson and Mrs. Ruby Johnson.

The groom's parents entertained a rehearsal dinner at The Landmark Restaurant.

A post nuptial reception was hosted by the groom's parents at the Beece Club in Woonsocket, R.I. on November 7.

Hair Shaping is an Artist's Perogative

Every perm, every flattering hair style owes its lasting beauty to the hair cut which precedes it.

Paint Your Own Portrait

...and preserve the basic portrait: the professional perm, cut and style which your trained stylist has given you.

Busy Hands With a Plan

The manner in which I cut and shape your hair, the way I block it into sections...All this is artistic know-how. From the moment my hands touch your hair, the plan is there. These hands work surely, swiftly from hours of practice - but they never work haphazardly!

Looking for a gift? Sweaters are perfect

A popular seller from Christmases past promises to be a high again—the sweater.

"It is the perfect gift," said Beth Duncan, a clothing and textiles specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "Everybody can wear a sweater—men, women, children and even the family pet."

Also, sweaters are available in a size to fit every shape—tall, short, large or in-between. And sweaters come in hundreds of exciting colors, styles, novelty patterns and fiber combinations, she said. They are available in a wide range of prices.

An oversized sweater, a comfortable pair of jeans and a warm mug of egg nog are just the right combination for a cozy holiday evening.

Those same Christmas decorations which look so festive one moment, could turn someone's home into a blazing inferno the next - if certain safety precautions aren't followed.

According to June H. Carpenter of Mississippi State University's home economics department, be sure to buy a fresh tree to begin with and then keep the base in water at all times after it's brought into the house.

People who opt for an artificial tree should make sure it bears the Underwriter Laboratories' tag of flammability approval. That same tag should appear on light strings, also.

"Never, however, use electrical decorations on trees with metallic needles, leaves or branches," warned Carpenter.

Any spotlights showing off the tree should be above or beside it, never attached to it. But, lighted candles shouldn't be on or even near any evergreens - or the draperies.

Carpenter said decorators should check those light strings for frayed wires or cracked sockets, and replace those in disrepair. She cautioned, "Never use light strings marked 'For Indoor Use' outside."

When leaving home to look at other people's decorations, or when retiring for the night, be sure to unplug those lights.

When shopping for presents to put underneath that tree, be sure to buy toys right for a child's age and development.

"Look for the recommended age group on the package," Carpenter pointed out.

Also watch out for those 'fire salts' which produce colored flames on wood fires. If swallowed, they can cause severe stomach disorders, so keep them away from the kids, she warned.

Once Christmas arrives and all the presents are opened, resist that temptation to burn the gift wrappings in the fireplace. They can ignite suddenly and cause a flash fire. Carpenter said the same goes for the tree itself, when it's time to dispose of it.

"The flames can flare out of control and send sparks flying about the room," she said.

Finally, homes should be equipped with a UL-listed, ABC-type fire extinguisher and a smoke or heat detector. In fact, Carpenter urged, "They can even make good gifts this Christmas for someone you love."

Timberline

By Mark Jamieson
County Forester

Planning to go out and cut your own Christmas tree this year? I thought we'd use the column this week to pass along some helpful pointers.

First of all, be sure you get your tree legally. Get permission to cut from the owner. Better still, offer to pay for a good specimen.

If you are thinking of cutting one off a school section, Natchez Trace, National Forest, etc., I'd advise you to forget it! In practically all those areas you'll be breaking the law.

Now, where in the house will you be placing your tree? How high is your ceiling? Remember, that when you are out in the wild trying to find that "perfect" tree, that they always look a lot smaller out there in the open.

Measure it to be sure you won't have to hack it up when you get it home. Also keep in mind that if you're going in a corner you'll only really need three good sides.

The best tool you can take along in your tree search is a small handsaw or pruning saw. Cut to leave about a six-inch tall stump.

Don't worry about how you cut the base of your tree at this time. You'll need to cut off about another inch or so anyway when you get it home to be sure it will take up water well and stay reasonable fresh.

You might want to wrap an old blanket around it or roll it up in an old tarp before you put it in the trunk or back of your pickup to haul it home. This will help keep the wind from drying it out and maybe prevent breakage of some of the smaller limbs.

Some people say "Seven-Up" and sugar water makes a good solution to stand your tree in. Some say dissolve an aspirin in the water. Suit yourself, but plain water will do fine.

Don't put your fresh tree in a place where forced air or a heater can dry it out! You'd do well to "mist" it every day or so with something like an old Windex bottle and sprayer. Be careful about the wiring! Best to do your light misting before bedtime after you've unplugged the tree for the night.

Remember, a good, fresh "live" Christmas tree is as safe to use as any other if you use common sense in selecting it, placing it, keeping its needles fresh with proper moisture etc.

Have a great Holiday Season! And, if you are a tree grower, call me if I can help you with your timberland management program.

Celebrate Sensibly

To enjoy Christmas manage money wisely

The Christmas holidays mean entertaining, giving gifts and traveling, all of which emphasize the importance of managing money wisely to get through the holidays.

The first step in celebrating sensibly is to develop a Christmas budget, according to Beverly Riggs, a family economics and management specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. Begin by deciding how much can be afforded for Christmas this year. Then list all the costs associated with the celebrating.

"Although gifts may be the largest expense, be sure to include other costs, such as decorations for the house or lawn, a Christmas tree, travel, entertainment, greeting cards and stamps," Ms. Riggs said. "Consider the alternatives for each category; and keeping the amount you plan to spend in mind, make adjustments where necessary. Then stick to your budget as closely as possible."

After determining the cost of Christmas, think about where the money will come from. For most people, providing the entire Christmas budget with one paycheck is impossible, so it becomes necessary to find alternative ways of financing Christmas. Explore alternatives and weigh the advantages of each against the disadvantages.

The best method of paying for Christmas is by saving for it, Ms. Riggs said. To do this, divide the total Christmas budget by 12 and set aside that amount each month. Start in January to save for next Christmas. Use a savings account to earn interest while saving.

Shop around for a savings account and compare interest rates. Some pay more than others. Those who have trouble saving may want to set up a special Christmas Club account.

Generally, Christmas Club accounts have no advantage over regular savings accounts except they do provide a feeling of forced savings. The saver decides a fixed amount to be deposited into the account at regular intervals.

"Many financial institutions offer Christmas Club accounts, but choose the plan carefully," she said. "Check to see what rate of interest is paid on the account and if the interest disappears if you withdraw the money early."

Credit is another method of financing the Christmas budget, but studies show that buying on credit tempts us to buy more than we would if we didn't use credit. Before deciding to use credit, consumers should look realistically at their financial situation. Can the family handle its present credit commitment, let alone more?

"If you do use credit for financing Christmas, shop around for the lowest annual percentage rate," Ms. Riggs said. "Check several sources of credit and compare how much you'll pay for the use of the credit, how much the monthly payment will be and the total amount you'll repay."

Another way of financing the Christmas budget is to increase income. Many stores and businesses hire extra help before and during the Christmas season. Supplement income by working for a few weeks or a month even if it is only on weekends, and use this income for the Christmas budget.

Skill in selecting and buying gifts is very important during the Christmas season. Make a shopping list early and stick to it. It's easy to get involved in the Christmas madness and buy a lot of things on impulse, she said.

"Shop early and carry a list through the year so you can take advantage of good buys," Ms. Riggs said. "Also, by spreading your expenditures over several months you won't put such a strain on your December budget."

Don't forget the best time to buy Christmas decorations, cards and wrapping paper is right after Christmas when they go on sale. Then you're ready for next year.

Take precautions to keep Christmas tree fresh

In the past, many families spent part of Christmas Eve in the woods, cutting their own tree and then decorating it for the holiday celebration.

Today, most trees are cut in late October, then shipped long distances for families to buy and decorate weeks before Christmas. Because early harvesting can cause many trees to dry out, families should look carefully before buying a Christmas tree and take certain precautions after bringing the tree home, according to Phil Hahn, a research forester with Georgia-Pacific Corp., a major forest products company.

"Some trees dry out quickly, while others hold moisture longer," he explained. "Species such as Scotch pines and Douglas firs produce more resin, which seals wounds and enables them to hold water longer."

Once the choice of trees has been narrowed, there are several ways to decide which is the best specimen, according to Hahn.

"Touching the tree's needles can help determine freshness," he said. "If the needles are soft and don't brush off, the tree still contains moisture. The needles of a dry tree are usually brittle and will break."

Fresh trees also have strong fragrances and pronounced colors, Hahn added.

A tree bought early should be placed upright in a bucket of water and stored someplace cool until time for decorating. A notch cut about an inch above the trunk's end will allow the tree to draw water. Once the tree is moved inside, another notch should be made about an inch above the original one to increase water absorption.

Since cut Christmas trees, depending on their size, can drink a pint of more of water per day, a stand that holds at least one-half gallon of water should be used.

"There can never be too much water," Hahn said. "After it's cut, a tree still breathes and evaporates moisture. It needs more water once it's inside because of the warmer temperatures."

The water level in the tree stand should be checked daily, Hahn added, and replenished if it drops below the upper notch on the tree trunk. If the level drops below the notch, a seal will form over the cut surface, preventing the tree from absorbing the moisture.

Electric trains, 1916-1986 at New Orleans Museum of Art for holidays

The New Orleans Museum of Art will present a special exhibition of vintage model trains—both running and stationary—during the 1986 holiday season. The exhibition, largely drawn from the collection of New Orleansian Dominic C. Schwab, will include more than 100 model trains ranging in date from 1916 to 1986.

This holiday show also will include an award-winning, hand-carved wooden train (circa 1932) and a model train from the collection of President Ronald Reagan. The exhibition, entitled 'Childhood Classics: Electric Trains, 1916-1986' will be on view from Saturday, Dec. 13 through Jan. 4, 1987.

A local seafood entrepreneur, Mr. Schwab has collected more than 4,000 model trains over the past 32 years. NOMA's exhibition represents the first public showing of any of these models.

He began collecting miniature trains in 1954 when his son asked for a train set for Christmas.

On visiting a local distributor, Mr. Schwab was intrigued by the large variety of models available. Unable to make one selection, he purchased the dealer's entire inventory.

Since this first venture, he has served as president of the Train Collectors' Association, a national organization with more than 17,000 members, and has collected scaled-down versions of the Kansas City Southern, Penn Central, Long Island and Santa Fe Line Railroads.

In addition to collecting, Mr. Schwab has built and hand-painted many of his models. John E. Slade, a local model train enthusiast, is guest curator of this exhibition.

Along with examples of Mr. Schwab's craftsmanship, NOMA's exhibition will include a handcarved wooden model of the 1832 DeWitt Clinton train, the first successful passenger train ever built. This model was crafted by New Orleansian T. P. Marquis who spent nine months during 1932 creating his entry for that year's DeWitt Clinton model competition organized by 'Popular Mechanics' magazine.

Mr. Marquis won second place in the national competition, with a prize of $500 and a trip to New York. The first place winner has not been located since the 1932 competition.

The Marquis wooden model, with entirely moving parts, will be a special feature of NOMA's holiday exhibition. T. P. Marquis' winning model train is being loaned to the museum by the machinist's great-great-grandson, Theodore Marquis Hatheway, who will also loan memorabilia and prizes which the model has received over years of competition.

Another highlight of 'Childhood Classics' will be the exhibit of a model train loaned by President Reagan for this exhibition. The President has been a model train collector for many years and the Western Coyle Electric reproduction loaned to NOMA is now in the collection of the National Train Collectors Association Museum in Strasburg, Penn.

Like the Schwab collection, President Reagan's train has not previously been loaned for public exhibition. Transportation for the Reagan train and the curator who will accompany the model is provided by Amtrak.

That the museum in City Park should organize a train exhibition is especially appropriate with regard to its location; since 1898 City Park has operated a miniature train for children and, as it turns out, adults.

The first 2,500 children who visit NOMA's train exhibition will be given a two-for-one pass for the City Park train. Coupons will entitle museum visitors to a free ride on the City Park train with the purchase of one regular priced ticket ($1.25). Tickets will be valid on the weekends of Dec. 13-14 and 20-21.

Dec. 14 is also the date of the museum's '75th Birthday Bash,' a day-long public celebration of '75 years of excellence' at the New Orleans Museum of Art.

In addition to the train exhibition and two-for-one train rides, the afternoon celebration will feature choirs, acrobats, mimes, jugglers, excerpts from the New Orleans City Ballet's 'Nutcracker,' live bands, and 75 birthday cakes donated by area master chefs. The birthday cakes will be judged and served with free ice cream to all attendees. City Park will offer jambalaya, soft drinks and beer at minimal prices throughout the day.

For more information on 'Childhood Classics: Electric Trains, 1916-1986' and NOMA's '75th Birthday Bash,' contact NOMA at 483-2631.

Check before using

Christmas lights can be hazardous

It's Christmas and once again it's time to decorate the Christmas tree with lights.

Before putting the lights on the tree, don't forget to carefully inspect them, according to Dr. Frances C. Graham, a housing specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"It's easy to assume the lights do not wear out or develop problems, since tree lights are used only once a year," Ms. Graham said. They should be inspected for possible frayed or crimped wires and broken and split sockets that can lead to short circuits.

"Do not become sentimental," she said. Discard the damaged lights and purchase new ones when needed.

When selecting new tree lights, choose only ones which are UL approved. If the lights are to be used outdoors, be sure they are designed specifically for that purpose. Lights designed for indoors should never be used outside because they lack waterproof connections which increase the chances of a short circuit or fire, she said.

Inspect bulbs for safe operation. If replacement strings of lights are needed, look for parallel circuit strings using 110 volt lamps. The advantage of the parallel circuit is that the rest of the lights will stay lit if one bulb burns out.

"Beware of bubbly tree lights," Ms. Graham said. "They usually contain methylene chloride which is a poisonous substance if swallowed."

Never use electric lights on metallic trees. Metallic trees can become charged with electricity from faulty electric lights, resulting in a shock or electrocution to anyone touching them.

the energized tree, she said. Illuminate a metal tree with colored flood lights instead. Because the flood lights get very hot, position them out of the reach of small children.

Be extra cautious when purchasing new lights. The metal part of the bulb should not be visible when in the socket. If it is, it can cause shock if it comes in contact with tinsel on the tree.

Normally a home electrical outlet is rated to handle 1500 watts. This will safely handle six to eight strings of 25 lamps each, as long as no other equipment is drawing power from the same circuit.

"The switch for turning on the lights should be away from the tree," Ms. Graham said. "Never use an outlet under the tree."

Also inspect all rooms before going to bed at night or leaving the house. Make certain all tree and display lights have been turned off and the plugs disconnected. Many fires have occurred when lights were left burning in an unattended house, she said.

For happy holidays keep food safe

MISSISSIPPI STATE—The holiday eating season is here and so is the prime time for food poisoning.

Remembering to keep hot foods hot and cold food cold can stop food poisoning before it starts, according to Barbara P. McLaurin, a food and nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. And since most bacteria get into food through careless handling, the third rule is to keep everything in the kitchen clean.

High food temperatures reached in boiling, baking, frying and roasting kill most food bacteria. To delay serving cooked food, though, keep it at a holding temperature—roughly 140 degrees Fahrenheit to 165°F.

"Chafing dishes and other buffet serving items are designed to maintain holding temperatures," Ms. McLaurin said. "But they do not always keep food hot enough. So it's wise not to leave food out for more than two hours."

When cooked food is left out unheated, the possibility of bacterial growth is greater, since the food quickly drops to room temperature where food poisoners thrive, she said.

To serve hot food easily, particularly meat and poultry, which are highly susceptible to food poisoning, always cook thoroughly. Cook meat and poultry to the "doneness" temperature given on a cooking chart. Use a meat thermometer to make sure that meat and poultry are cooked all the way through.

"And don't interrupt cooking," she said.

Cook meat and poultry completely at one time. Partial cooking may encourage bacterial growth before cooking is completed.

Always thoroughly reheat leftovers and cover leftovers while reheating. This retains moisture and guarantees that food will heat all the way through. Bring gravies to a rolling boil before serving.

Never leave food out over more than two hours, she said. The risk of spoilage increases when food is out longer.

After dinner, food should be refrigerated quickly. The colder food is kept, the less chance bacteria have to grow. In large part that's why food keeps in the freezer so much longer than in the refrigerator.

To make sure both refrigerator and freezer are giving good protection against bacterial growth, check them with an appliance thermometer.

To make sure both refrigerator and freezer are giving good protection against bacterial growth, check them with an appliance thermometer.

"These are relatively inexpensive and can be purchased where small kitchen equipment and utensils are sold," Ms. McLaurin said. "The refrigerator should register 40°F (5°Celsius) or lower. The freezer should read 0°F (-18°C) or lower."

Frozen foods being thawed must be kept cold. The safest way to thaw meat or poultry is to take it out of the freezer and leave it overnight in the refrigerator. Normally, it will be ready for use the next day. For faster thawing, put the frozen package in a watertight plastic bag under cold water, she said. Change the water often to keep it cold.

A microwave oven will safely thaw meat and poultry. Follow the manufacturer's directions.

"It is very important not to thaw meat and poultry on the kitchen counter," Ms. McLaurin said. "Bacteria can multiply rapidly at room temperature."

Don't cool leftovers on the kitchen counter. Put them straight into the refrigerator.

Divide large meat, macaroni or potato salad and large bowls of mashed potatoes or dressing into small portions. Food in small portions cool more quickly to temperatures where bacteria quit growing.

The third principle of food safety is to keep dishes and hands clean when working with food.

Always wash hands before beginning food preparation. Teach this simple, but vital, rule to children too.

Use gloves to handle food if hands have any kind of skin cut or infection. Try not to sneeze or cough into food.

"Bacteria can 'loiter' in towels and cloths used over and over, so wash kitchen lines often," she said. "Throw out dirty or mildewed dish sponges."

Wash hands, countertops and utensils in hot, soapy water between each step in food preparation. Bacteria present on raw meat and poultry can get into other food if everything they've touched isn't washed before exposing another food to the same surfaces and utensils. Starchy foods and those containing dairy products are particularly vulnerable, she said.

Wash hands, utensils and food-contact surfaces between contact with raw meat or poultry and the same dish when cooked. For instance, when using a serving dish to marinate raw chicken, wash the dish well before using it to take up that same chicken after it's cooked.

Old Fashioned Christmas featured at Agriculture Museum

Christmas will come to town in the old-fashioned way throughout December at the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry/National Agricultural Aviation Museum.

James and Juanita Tolar of Columbia, Mississippi's first place winners in the Christmas Tree Growers Association annual contest, presented a live tree to the museum at 11 a.m., Tuesday, Dec. 2. The tree was decorated and placed in the lobby of the Mississippi Heritage Center.

Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Jim Buck Ross accepted the tree for the museum.

On Friday and Saturday, Dec. 5 and 6, the museum came alive with Christmas activity. The Heritage Gift Shop in the Arts and Crafts building has a special sale on Christmas gift items.

Featured are muscadine gift boxes. Museum admission will be free to all who make a $5 or more purchase in the gift shop.

The Mississippi College Small Ensemble performed around the Christmas tree in the Mississippi Heritage Center Saturday and Ann Rushing of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce conducted a "Holiday Food Gifts" program.

Free copies of "Holiday Foods, 1986" were available.

From 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. the Southern Bucks performed on the porch of the General Store.

Planist and composer Bonnie Barish of Biloxi performed in the Arts and Crafts Building.

Sunday, Dec. 7 will feature the Utica Palace of Children at 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. in the Arts and Crafts Building.

The Israelites will perform in the Museum Church non-denominational at 2 p.m. During the day the Antique Car Club of Mississippi will have automobiles on display.

The Old Fashioned Christmas will continue on Saturday, Dec. 13 with spice tea and teacakes served to all visitors. At 10 a.m. there will be a package wrapping and bow tying demonstration. This demonstration also will be conducted at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

The rest of the day will feature Christmas music by the Broadmoor Baptist Church Adult Handbell Performers, soloist Faith Perry, and the male choir from Rock Star Baptist Church.

At 1 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 14, soloist Candy Carlisle will sing favorite Christmas songs in the Mississippi Heritage Center. She will sing again at 4 p.m. The Brandon United Methodist Choir will present "The Sound of His Love" on the amphitheatre stage at 2 p.m.

For a true Christmas celebration, visit the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry/National Agricultural Aviation Museum in December. Admission is $3 for adults, $1 for children. The museum is on Lakeland Drive at Interstate 55 north, Exit 33, in Jackson.

HOLIDAY GREENS FOR DECORATING—When choosing evergreens for decorating during the holidays, use the type best suited for each decoration. Good evergreen selections for wreaths are pines, yews, firs and junipers. Scotch and white pine are flexible to work with and add an informal graceful effect to wreaths, mantles or table decorations.

Pines are one of the longest lasting evergreens for use indoors. Balsam fir is another traditionally popular Christmas green which holds its needles well and is easy to work with.

Spruce loses its needles quickly as it dries out. It should be used for outdoor wreaths or for only a short time indoors.

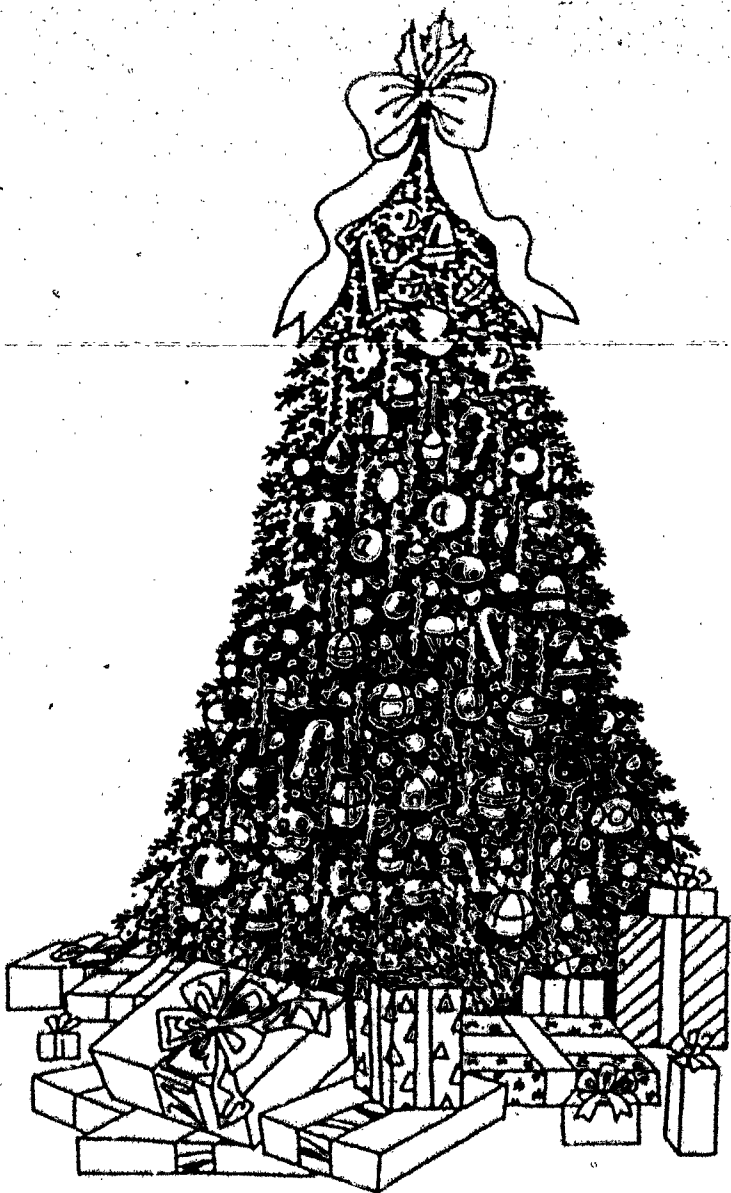

Caution should always be used with live greens as they dry out and become flammable. Be sure to keep them away from fireplaces, candles and other flames.

CHRISTMAS TREE CARE—When buying a cut tree, try to get a fresh one. Look for a tree with good green needles that don't fall off when jostled. Store in a cool place and cut the end of the trunk diagonally to increase the surface area for water to be absorbed. Place the end of the trunk in water. When ready to decorate, cut the end of the trunk evenly. Place in a container of water. Keep the container filled with water. Check water level each day as the warm, dry inside temperature will cause the tree to absorb the water quickly.

If you plan to buy a live tree to use as Christmas tree, don't keep it in the house for longer than one week. Select a planting site before the ground is frozen. Place a 6-8 inch layer of straw over the spot. After using your live tree for the holidays, plant it outside, no deeper than the top of the root ball.

REMOVING PINE GUM—One way to remove the pine pitch or other pitches which can get on your skin working with evergreens is Vaseline. It is an inexpensive and safe substitute for turpentine and other petroleum solvents.

We hope these tips may make your Holiday Season even brighter!

Parents warned:

Three-wheelers not for children

Pediatricians and public health officials are combining efforts to prevent needless death or disability from all-terrain vehicles (ATV's).

The Mississippi Chapter, American Academy of Pediatrics, and Mississippi State Department of Health encourage parents to "Know what you're giving."

"All-terrain vehicles are not toys, not safe for children."

Marilyn Graves, M.D., medical director of the Mississippi Children's Rehabilitation Center and on the Academy's committee on children with disabilities, said she and others concerned about children's safety want to prevent accidents.

"As I see it," she said, "children should not ride all-terrain vehicles. Operations of ATV's requires coordination, dynamic balance, quick reflexes, good visual and auditory perception, and mature judgement. Children have not developed these skills."

In three years, ATV's were related to 160 deaths and more than 100,000 injuries. Forty-six percent of these accidents involved users under age 16.

"Can you imagine the public outcry if some 'dread disease' had caused, within a short six-month period, the deaths of six Mississippi children and was responsible for numerous disabling injuries?" Dr. Graves asked.

"Where is the public outcry against ATV's - such an easily recognized, highly publicized, and preventable cause of mortality and morbidity in our children and young adults?"

Dr. Graves and other health and safety experts emphasize that ATV's are "complicated, motorized machines," not toys.

Marketed to hunters, farmers, and other sportsmen and outdoor workers, the vehicles are designed to travel rough terrain safely. But proponents of ATV safety question whether anyone should feel totally comfortable about safety.

"The question of control for these popular and well-advertised vehicles is not easily resolved," Dr. Graves said. "I believe the manufacturer has definite responsibility for ensuring the safe design of the vehicle and for educating the public in proper use."

"Certainly, the parents have responsibility for deciding if their family should own such a vehicle and, if so, in deciding whether their children can operate the vehicle," she added.

"I think the public has the responsibility to be aware of the seriousness of this problem."

Extent of public or governmental control of ATV's has been frequently debated.

"So far as I know," Dr. Graves said, "the only law concerning use of the vehicle limits it to 'off the road use.' No law requires use of a helmet as with motorcycles, the argument apparently is related to the restriction of 'off road use' - how can a helmet be mandated if vehicles are operated on private property? Ironically, none of the recent deaths reported occurred on a public road."

"We have recommended federal or state regulations addressing age of operator, limitation of speed and road testing, appropriate training for operation, and mandated use of helmet and appropriate safety gear," she mentioned.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has also called for restricting use of ATV's by youngsters, improving rider training, and requiring better suspensions to help reduce accidents involving "motorized tricycles."

Family time

Use Christmas to teach traditions

Christmas is a season filled with activities that help a child learn to appreciate family relationships and traditions. These traditions help a child gain a sense of continuity and kinship with his or her ancestors, according to Norine Barnes, a child and family development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

And while most parents are eager to give their children Christmas gifts they'll like, it's important to remember that sharing and participating in the family's activities for the season will enrich the child as much as presents under the tree.

"Sharing the shopping, the decorating, collecting, entertaining, storytelling, church and school programs, music and even the TV specials are all part of the child's learning about and remembering Christmas," Mrs. Barnes said.

Let the child help decorate the house and tree and perhaps even have a little tree of his own to decorate. Let the child make ornaments of construction paper or make paper chains. Allow the child to set up a Christmas scene and play with the nativity figures. Encourage the child to invite young friends in to share the decorating and enjoy the tree and other decorations.

Retell the stories of Christmas, including the Bible stories and classic tales. Remember to tell stories of Christmases past when daddy or mother was little and helped their parents or were happy or disappointed at Christmas time.

"Bring out the Christmas records, tapes, songbooks and have family caroling," Mrs. Barnes said. "And watch for the holiday specials on TV that the child will enjoy with the family."

Check the newspaper for special events that a youngster might participate in or observe without overdoing. Take part in the Christmas parade or an evening drive up and down the streets to enjoy holiday home decorations.

"Make a point of driving around neighborhoods in different parts of town and discuss the significance or beauty of various decorations," she said.

"This is, also, a good time to point out that all religions do not celebrate Christmas."

Take a trip to window shop and visit toy departments. Visit outdoor displays and try to find a live crib scene where the animals may be touched or watched.

Take the family Christmas caroling with a group from your church or just on your own. Some families have a tradition of going to communion on Christmas Eve.

METV Christmas music to aired nationally

HATTIESBURG—An award-winning program of Christmas music performed by a nationally known musician at the University of Southern Mississippi will be offered nationwide this holiday season to stations comprising the Public Broadcasting System (PBS).

"Christmas at Merrehope," a 30-minute program featuring USM guitarist Giovanni De Chiaro, will be offered via satellite for broadcast by the International Program Service to each of the 50 states PBS broadcasting centers across the United States.

Videotaped and first aired by Mississippi ETV in 1965, the program recently was awarded the Chris Plaque during the Columbus (Ohio) Film Festival.

An acclaimed virtuoso, De Chiaro has performed throughout the eastern part of the country, including solo performances at Carnegie Hall.

"I think this is one of the greatest things I've ever done," De Chiaro said of the Merrehope program. "The selections in the program are my arrangements and they had never been heard before the statewide broadcast last year, and now they will be heard nationwide."

De Chiaro chose nine traditional Christmas pieces for the program—including "Deck the Halls," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "O Holy Night," "The Nutcracker," and "Silent Night."

Each song is performed in the various decorated rooms of the 20-room Merrehope mansion in Meridian. The house was first built as a small cottage in 1858 on land deeded by Richard McLemore, the first settler in the area. Merrehope has been associated with Meridian from the founding of the city through the Civil War to the present.

In 1968, the house was purchased by the Meridian Restorations Foundation. Each year before Christmas, the foundation conducts its annual "Trees of Christmas" event, during which each room is decorated in both traditional and contemporary fashion and opened for tours.

Mississippi ETV will air "Christmas at Merrehope" Dec. 23, at 7:30 p.m.

The origin of Christmas kettles

The Salvation Army Captain in San Francisco had resolved, in December of 1891, to provide a free Christmas dinner to the area's poor persons. But how would he pay for the food?

As he went about his daily tasks, the question stayed in his mind. Suddenly, his thoughts went back to his days as a sailor in Liverpool, England. On the Stage Landing he saw a large pot called "Simpson's pot" into which charitable donations were thrown by passers-by.

On the next morning, he secured permission from the authorities to place a similar pot at the Oakland ferry landing, at the foot of Market Street. No time was lost in securing the pot and placing it in a conspicuous position, so that it could be seen by all those going to and from the ferry boats. In addition, a brass urn was placed on a stand in the waiting room for the same purpose.

Thus, Captian Joseph McFee launched a tradition that has spread not only throughout the United States, but throughout the world.

By Christmas, 1895, the kettle was used in 30 Salvation Army Corps in various sections of the West Coast area. 'The Sacramento Bee' of that year carried a description of the Army's Christmas activities and mentioned the contributions to street corner kettles.

Shortly afterward, two young

Salvation Army officers who had been instrumental in the original use of the kettle, William A. McIntyre and N. J. Lewis, were transferred to the East. They took with them the idea of the Christmas kettle.

In 1897, McIntyre prepared his Christmas plans for Boston around the kettle, but his fellow officers refused to cooperate for fear of "making spectacles of themselves." So McIntyre, his wife and his sister set up three charge to see that contributions are not stolen."

In 1901, kettle contributions in New York City provided funds for the first mammoth sit-down dinner in Madison Square Garden, a custom that continued for many years.

Today, however, families are given grocery checks so that they can buy and prepare their own dinners at home. The homeless poor are still invited to share holiday dinners and festivities at hundreds of Salvation Army centers.

Kettles now are used in such distant lands as Korea, Japan, and Chile, and in many European countries. Everywhere, public contributions to the kettles enable The Salvation Army to bring the spirit of Christmas to those who would otherwise be forgotten - to the aged and lonely, the ill, the inmates of jails and other institutions, the poor and unfortunates.

In the United States, The Salvation Army annually aids more than 4,500,000 persons at Thanksgiving and Christmas. Kettles have changed since the first utilitarian cauldron set up in San Francisco.

Some of the new kettles have such devices as a self-ringing bell and a booth complete with public address system over which the traditional Christmas carols are broadcast. Behind it all, though, is the same Salvation Army message, "Sharing Is Caring."

"Sharing
Is

kettles at the Washington Street thoroughfare in the heart of the city. That year the kettle effort in Boston and other locations nationwide resulted in 150,000 Christmas dinners for the needy.

In 1898, The 'New York World' hailed The Salvation Army kettles as "the newest and most novel device for collecting money." The newspaper also observed, "There is a man in

Angel Trees bear the fruit of Christmas spirit

Hundreds of children who might otherwise miss the joy of getting a new toy on Christmas morning will wake up to find there really is a Santa Claus. And he is living in the spirit of an Angel Tree.

The Mississippi Power Company Chapter of the National Management Association has set up Christmas trees throughout the company's service area as locations for people to donate presents for underprivileged or troubled children. Monetary donations to purchase gifts are also being accepted. The presents should not be wrapped so they can be matched with a child of an appropriate age.

The NMA has set up Angel Trees at the Bay St. Louis Local Office at 153 Main St. and the Pass Christian Local Office at 118 Davis Ave. The toys collected will be distributed to needy children through the Knights of Columbus and the Pass Christian Rotary Club.

"Our NMA Chapter wants to help children have a merry Christmas," said Joan Gartman, coordinator of the Angel Tree project. "So we are asking people to give a little for a holiday that means so much."

Anyone interested in supporting the NMA's Angel Tree program can go by the Bay St. Louis or Pass Christian Local Offices during business hours, Monday through Friday before Monday, Dec. 22.

Often disguised as 'virus'

Frequent holiday guest is food poisoning

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Turkey and dressing. Ham and sweet potatoes. Holiday buffets lavishly loaded with party foods. It's the traditional holiday picture that will be repeated in thousands of Mississippi homes soon.

But the picture could change to one that's not so festive if the food should become contaminated and cause illness. And it can happen so easily if food isn't handled properly, according to Barbara P. McLaurin, a food and nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Some two million persons are struck by food poisoning each year in the country," Ms. McLaurin said. "Many experts believe this number is only the tip of the iceberg because much food poisoning goes unreported and is just said to be a 'flu bug' or 'virus'."

With holidays nearing, conditions are more favorable for food poisoning. People prepare more food, especially in larger quantities. Refrigerator space may be short, causing people to become a bit careless in storing foods properly.

With increased entertaining during this time, buffets have become a fashionable way to serve many in a minimum of space. Unless care is taken, foods may be left on the buffet for the come-and-go crowds longer than is safe.

Whether cooking for a few people or for a crowd, taking a few simple precautions in food care can save untold hours of misery and distress from this usually minor, but always miserable, condition.

Salmonella bacteria may be found in raw or undercooked foods, such as poultry, eggs and meat. Unpasteurized (raw) milk also contains salmonella. Control is a simple matter, though, because thorough cooking kills salmonella.

Perfringens show its ugly side—usually diarrhea and gas pains—some eight to 24 hours after eating. While the symptoms often end within a day, people with certain medical conditions, ulcer patients for instance can be seriously affected.

"It is called the 'cafeteria germ' because it often strikes food served in quantity and left for long periods of time on a steam table or at room temperature," Ms. McLaurin said. Perfringens may be found in cooked beef, turkey, gravy, dressing, stews and casseroles.

Special attention to refrigeration, which keeps perfringens from growing, and dividing large portions into small dishes for serving are best hedges against perfringens.

Although staph, salmonella and perfringens are most likely to cause problems during the holidays, there are 20 or so other food poisons that can cause problems too. To get food on the table safely, know and follow the rules for food care.

Holiday entertaining takes skill, planning

MISSISSIPPI STATE— The holidays usually are a time for sharing with the family and friends, and food is an important part of the celebration.

But the good times can take so much of the hostess' time that she is unable to share in the fun, according to Melissa Mixon, a food and nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Entertaining with food doesn't just happen, even for the hostess who appears to have an inborn flair for entertaining," she said.

Pre-planning and preparation are necessary for everything to go smoothly and free the hostess to be with family and friends.

The planning phase is all-important in making the holiday celebration a success. Menus should be planned well in advance of the occasion.

"Think through the menus and include foods the family and friends will like," Mrs. Mixon said. "Include foods that can be prepared ahead of time and served quickly."

A list of food items prepared before shopping can eliminate unnecessary trips back to the supermarket.

"Know your limits. A simple, well-planned party is likely to embarrass guests less and impress them more," Mrs. Mixon said. "And don't try too many recipes at once."

Most everyone has a problem with space, but that shouldn't interfere with the entertaining. One way around the space problem is to open up the entire house to guests. Have a different course in each room such as hors d'oeuvres in the den, main course in the dining room (or wherever it can be kept warm) and the dessert on the patio or back to the den.

"After the party is over don't forget all your plans and menus," Mrs. Mixon said. "Use filing cards to keep records of guest lists, food served, a time schedule and a grocery list to have ready for another holiday meal."

YOUR FAMILY MEMBERS BELONG AT HOME.

A professional family portrait makes a very personal addition to the decor of your home. It can be as formal or informal as you are.

Origins of Christmas

Christmas traditions survive the centuries

By Karen Moore
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Christmas is a special time full of wonderful traditions, from sending cards to trimming the tree.

"Understanding old traditions is a wonderful way to start new traditions," said Norine Barnes, a child and family development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Many of our Christmas traditions originated centuries ago. Although revisions have been made, they continue to be popular.

One authority says Christmas trees originated with the Egyptians. They decorated houses with branches of date palm at winter solstice. The Egyptians considered date palm to be the symbol of eternal life.

The first Christmas tree in the U.S. is said to have been in the home of Charles Follen, a German professor at Harvard. Beginning in 1832, he had a tree each year for his son at Cambridge, Mass. An Englishwoman, Harriet Martineau, who visited the Follens in 1832, wrote about the tree and its decorations of dolls, glittering ornaments and its 84 wax tapers in her book, 'Retrospect of Western Travel.' She predicted the tree would become a regular New England holiday tradition.

President Franklin Pierce and his wife were the first presidential family to have a Christmas tree in the White House in the 1850s.

We commonly regard St. Nicholas or Santa Claus as a myth. But there really was a St. Nicholas, who lived during the fourth century. He was an early Christian bishop who was unusually generous. St. Nicholas learned in his youth how many people were impoverished so he went out in disguise and distributed presents, especially to children.

Our modern Santa Claus was further popularized by cartoonist Thomas Nast in Harper's Illustrated Weekly in 1863. For his drawing, Nast remembered a similar character in a fur-trimmed suit who brought children presents during his childhood.

Christmas cards originated in England in the early 1800s with various people claiming to be the first. Christmas cards were introduced in the U.S. in 1874.

The Christmas wreath is said to have originated from Christ's crown of thorns.

The Romans considered mistletoe to be a symbol of hope and peace. When enemies met under it, they laid aside their weapons, kissed each other and declared a truce until the next day.

The beautiful Christmas poinsettia was discovered in 1828 in Mexico by Dr. Joel Roberts Poinsett of Charleston, S.C. The Mexicans and people of Central America call the plant Flor de la Noche Buena (Flower of the Holy Night or of Christmas Eve) or 'Flame Leaf.'

The custom of the Nativity scene is said to have originated in the church as early as the eighth century. However, it was St. Francis of Assisi who popularized the re-enactment of Christ's birth when he set up a simple manger scene at the little town of Greccio, Italy in 1224.

Through the years, variations on old traditions develop. Now some church groups sponsor live nativity scenes.

Mrs. Barnes said new traditions that have developed as a result of modern society include driving through residential areas to look at Christmas lights on houses, families watching Christmas specials on TV and videotaping Christmas morning activities to replay in future years.
